Dear Parents/Guardians,

All the candy craziness is over and hopefully all the treats are now safely stored away from eager hands. We were quite lucky that there was no white stuff on the ground till the next day. However, I don't believe that it would have stopped the candy hunters!

Alas, November is now upon us and with it we will have snow, gray days, bare trees...In the classroom, though, we will be having all kinds of activities as we practice songs, learn, play math baseball and act out some story writing.

We will also be discussing residential schools and our First Nations' history and heritage.

To end, I will ask you to remember to have your child well equipped with all of the necessary winter gear so that the winter wonderland outside can be thoroughly enjoyed!

The following text will outline our November plan as well as provide you with some dates.
